SHANTUNG DATA TO GO TO LEAGUE

Local Society Will Send Facts Of Japanese Rule To Geneva

To collect data concerning Japanese outrages in Shantung Province and to prepare a complete statement of China's case on Shantung for submission to the League of Nations Council, which meets at Geneva early next month, the Shantung Patriotic Society of Shanghai has been organised, and begun taking steps.

The decision was arrived at Sunday by the Society at a meeting presided over by Mr. Yoh Woo-yah, a local editor. The president of the organisation is Mr. Hsu Tung-fan, a Shanghai newspaper man educated in England. Mr. Hsu was foreign secretary to Mr. Chu Yin-kwang, formerly civil governor of Shantung, and is publishing a book describing conditions in the Province since the Japanese have assumed the reins of government.

The volume, which includes 17 articles previously published in the foreign and Chinese press and a preface by Dr. Wang Chung-hui, eminent Chinese jurist, will make its appearance on November 10.

Chihliists Want Fengtien War Lord To Throw Out Hungchun "Jap Invaders"

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, October 23.—The two matters chiefly agitating Peking at the present moment are the Hungchun situation and the provincial demand for "self-Government" and the abolition of the Tuchunate.

In regard to the "Hungchun invasion," as it is styled, the Chinese realise that the Japanese action is a fait accompli against which their protests are powerless, and are of further value only as propaganda.

The Paoting Military Conference of the Chihli faction has passed a resolution demanding that the Japanese get out of Hungchun, and that Chang Tso-lin put them out. By this action the Chihli faction makes a bid for popular favor and kills another bird by placing its rival in Manchuria in a difficult position.

FIGHTING TUCHUNATE

The "self-government" movement, which really aims at government over the provinces, the power of the Tuchuns and at the same time weakening the appointive authority of the Peking government over the provinces, placing the real provincial authority in the hands of the provincial politicians by means of the provincial assemblies, is growing daily in power and is being watched as the most interesting present phase of the political evolution of the country. The delegates of Kiangsu and Hunan met in Central Park in the capital yesterday afternoon, and organised the "All-Provinces Local Government Association," which the popular organisations of all provinces are invited to join. Anhui and Shantung, both of which are determined not to accept the rule of their newly-appointed Tuchuns have active delegations in the capital, which have used, in a small degree, the methods of the students a year ago to force audiences with the Premier and President.

GOVERNMENT IS AT LOSS

Organisations of six provinces have already evidenced their desire to join in the anti-Tuchun and self-government movement, and the new All-provinces Self-government Society expects to make itself an active factor in national politics within a short time.

The government here is stalling

Local Bodies Hold Chang Responsible For Hungchun Tilt

Holding that Chang Tso-lin, the Fengtien tuchun, is responsible for the peace and order of Manchuria, six local organisations yesterday addressed a protest against the Japanese action in Hungchun to President Hsu and the Cabinet.

The message stated that the entire nation is indignant over the extraordinary action taken by Japan, and asked Peking to make strong representations to the Japanese Minister and at the same time order General Chang to protect China's sovereign rights and prevent any attempt at encroachment.

The message was signed by the Kiangsu Educational Association, the Shanghai Nantao Chamber of Commerce, the Shanghai City Educational Association, the Vocational Educational Association, the Christians' Association for National Salvation and the Shanghai Union of Fire Brigades.

A similar message was sent to President Hsu, Premier Chin and Foreign Minister Yen by the West Shanghai Street Union.

Airplanes Seized By Chang Tso-lin Cause Of Railway Accident

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, Oct. 26.—It is reported that three Handley-Page airplanes were ruined, the freight cars conveying them were derailed, a bridge near Tangkou was damaged and through traffic from Mukden held up several hours when Chang Tso-lin, attempted to ship three airplanes from Tientsin to his Fengtien stronghold for military use. Improper packing was the cause of the accident.

Despite the protest of the British Legation, Chang, it is stated, shipped three machines from Tientsin because they could not fly to Mukden as the magnetos had been removed by the Anfuites when the latter were defeated. The damaged machines are valued at $50,000.

The freight car struck the superstructure of a railway bridge near Tangkou.

These airships constitute half of those under controversy between the British Legation and the Peking Government. The Legation demands that China live up to the agreement by using these airplanes for commercial purposes only. It has recently extended the time limit for the administration to answer.

The other three airships are being kept by General Tsao Kun at his Paotingfu camp.

Club Women Give Dansant To Aid Famine Sufferers

An offering of considerable magnitude will be made to the famine relief fund by the American Woman's Club as a result of the tea dance that was given in aid of the fund at the Astor House yesterday afternoon between the hours of 5 and 7:30 o'clock. More Americans than have been seen at any recent gathering in Shanghai—as well as a number of others—attended the affair which was held in the ball room of the hotel.

The members of the American Woman's Club were given every aid by the Astor House staff in making the tea dansant the success it proved to be and this spirit was manifested as well by the hotel boys, waiters and attendants, for these servitors declined to accept the customary cumshaw, saying they wished to donate their full services to the famine relief cause for which the affair was given. Members of club committees said that the success achieved was due in no small measure to the assistance given by Mr. W. S. Bardarson, Manager of the Astor House, Mr. J. Klass and Mr. W. F. Richman. The use of the ball room was donated for the occasion.

Preceding the dancing tea and cakes were served at tables that surrounded the dancing space. The party was brought to a conclusion with a novel and interesting auction of cakes and candy. The announcement for this was made to the gathering by Judge Charles S. Lobingier of the United States Court for China who introduced the auctioneer, Commander E. J. Cope in charge of the Navy Paymaster's Department. In the work of auctioneering Commander Cope was assisted by Mr. George A. Fitch, Secretary of the Y.M.C.A.

The following acted as hostesses: Mrs. C. S. Lobingier, Mrs. M. F. Perkins, Mrs. W. H. Lunt, Mrs. J. B. Fearn, Mrs. R. I. Clapp, Mrs. F. R. Sites, Mrs. W. L. Merriman, Mrs. J. A. Ely, Mrs. J. H. Dollar, Mrs. Wm. Morris, Mrs. Atkinson, Mrs. T. E. Doremus, Mrs. J. Macdonald, Mrs. C. P. Holcomb.

CIVIC LEAGUE HEARS ADDRESS BY MR. PEARCE

Former Chairman Of Council Lectures On Government Of Settlement

TELLS SHANGHAI HISTORY

Speaker Describes Methods Of Administration And Relations With Chinese

Mr. E. C. Pearce, for a number of years chairman of the Shanghai Municipal Council, delivered an address on "The Municipal Government of Shankhai" before the Civic League at its first meeting of the season yesterday and delighted a large attendance with an outline of the history of Shanghai, afterwards describing the functioning of local authorities. The meeting was held at the Royal Asiatic Society Hall.

Mr. Pearce not only explained the inner workings of the Municipal Council and the various departments under its jurisdiction but also discussed the relations of the local administrative government with Chinese authorities, the Consular Body and the Diplomatic Corps.

Mr. Pearce said: The birthday of Shanghai dates back to the Treaty of Nanking, 1842, when the port was thrown open to foreign trade and residence. The Settlers in these early days were practically all of British nationality and curiously enough judging from the records, they were principally English.

ORIGINAL AREA

The original area or Settlement was determined in 1843, by Captain Balfour, the first British Consul, with the then Taotai, who dwelt in the native city; the area being about one square mile, bounded on the south by the Yangkingpang—now Avenue Edward VII—on the north by the Soochow Creek, and west by the Defense Creek—now the Thibet Road. Two years later the first Code of Land Regulations was published by Captain Balfour and the settlement administered, not as a municipality, but by a committee of land renters. It is interesting to note that provision was made in these regulations that, if individuals belonging to other nations should wish to rent ground and build houses, or rent houses for residence or storage of goods within the boundaries of the Settlement they had first to make application to the British Consul "to know whether such could be acceded to so as to prevent misunderstanding."

These regulations proved unsatisfactory as with the advent of other nationalities and their consuls, the validity of the land regulations so far as they were concerned came into question. The want of some authority by which the cosmopolitan foreign population in the Settlement might be welded together and the need of a form of municipal government binding on all alike, led in 1854 to the introduction of a new Code of Municipal Land Regulations of a more or less comprehensive character.

THE AMERICAN SETTLEMENT

In or about the year 1845 Dr. Boone and the American Episcopal Mission established themselves as the first foreign settlers on the northern bank of the Soochow Creek, and on the river embankment Broadway now exists: others followed, as a rule they were Americans, and thus the name American Settlement came into use as describing what is sometimes referred to as the Hongkew Settlement.

Connection between the North and South sides of Soochow Creek was kept up by means of the Sinza stone bridge and by ferries. There was, however, no bridge between what was known as the English Settlement and Hongkew untill sometime in the fifties, when the Wills Bridge consisting of pontoons was built across from the British Consulate to Woosung Road.

In the sixties, with the presence of the Taipings in the neighborhood (you have all doubtless heard or read of the great Taiping Rebellion) these Settlements were overrun with rowdies, Hongkew in particular suffering, the community there settled being unable to maintain a sufficient police force to keep order, while apart from this the authorities found themselves confronted with the task of looking after a very large Chinese population over which they had no judicial control.

They travelled to the provincial capital in company with Foreign Commissioner C. F. Hsu in the latter's private car. Admiral Gleaves has been a strong admirer of the doughty Yangtsze Tuchun, considering him as one well to the forefront among those working for China's good.

A part in the ceremonies of next Sunday, when the body will be removed from Nanking, will be taken by the U. S. gunboat Elcano, flagship of the Yangtse Patrol, which will sail for Nanking tomorrow under command of Captain E. McCauley.

The cruiser Huron, flagship of the Asiatic squadron, with Admiral Gleaves aboard, sailed downstream yesterday, bound for Keelung, Formosa. From there she will proceed to Amoy, Swatow and Hongkong, thence to Manila.

Russians Residing In China Outline Plan To Safeguard Rights

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, October 23.—The committee of the delegations of Russian social organisations in China, representing more especially Harbin, Tientsin and Hankow, the members of which have in the course of the last few days been received by the Foreign Ministers in Peking and, twice, by the Chinese Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs, handed to the latter today the following representation concerning the legal status of Russians in China resulting from the Presidential decree of September 23 last, and simultaneously communicated a copy of this representation to the Doyen of the Diplomatic Body, H. Emergency Bill Halted As Strike Clouds Litt

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 25.—The continuance today of the informal conversations between the representatives of the miners and the Ministry, which began yesterday, has brought a tone of optimism into the situation.

Mr. Hodges and Mr. Smillie, the miners' leaders, in a brief interview, intimated that a spirit of cheerfulness is going to be maintained.

Nevertheless, it must be remembered that actual negotiations have not yet been resumed, although conversations have been preparing the way for them.

MAY BALLOT AGAIN

In any case, the strike is likely to last through the week, for even when an agreement is reached, a fresh ballot of the men is now declared to be necessary to ratify it.

Meanwhile an hopeful sign is the reported intention of the Government not to proceed immediately with the Emergency Bill which is bound to raise heated opposition in the House of Commons, and to complicate the chances of a settlement.

London, Oct. 24.—After a discussion lasting an hour and a half at the headquarters of the Miners' federation this afternoon, Mr. Frank Hodges, the secretary, stated that the conference between the officials of the Federation and the Prime Minister would be resumed tomorrow morning.

Besides Mr. Lloyd George, there were present at this conference Mr. Bonar Law and Sir Robert Horne, President of the Board of Trade.

NEW BASIS REPORTED

It is understood that the government has arrived at a new basis which, if acceptable to the miners, is likely to provide a satisfactory settlement.

The miners' representatives are reporting the result of the conference to the Miners' Executive this afternoon.

The continuance of the discussions is regarded as a hopeful sign.

LORD MAYOR OF CORK DIES AFTER STARVING HIMSELF FOR 74 DAYS

Terence MacSwiney

Sinn Fein Leader Commits Suicide By Refusing To Eat After Being Sent To Prison For Plot Against Britain

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 25.—The Lord Mayor of Cork died this morning after a period of complete exhaustion. He did not regain consciousness.

London, October 25.—Lord Mayor MacSwiney died in Brixton Prison at 5:20 this morning—the 74th day of his hunger-strike. After a brief conscious interval, he lapsed into unconsciousness yesterday evening.

Mr. MacSwiney recently had repeated attacks of delirium. He was given nourishment by the prison authorities, but his condition was so enfeebled that it had little effect.

MACSWINEY'S STORY

Terrance MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, according to a recent Irish bulletin forwarded to The Irish World and American Industrial Liberator, of New York, took his extreme course "after four years of alternating imprisonment and attempted arrest by the British military government, which seeks by these means to prevent the representatives of the Irish people from serving the Irish people." He was a "commercial instructor" by occupation, with the degree of B.A., and is the author of some national dramas and poems. After he became prominent in the Sinn-Fein movement his life consisted mainly of arrests. According to the bulletin:

"Alderman MacSwiney was first arrested in May, 1916. He was deported without trial or charge to Wakefield Prison, England. He was released without explanation or apology some months later. He was rearrested in February, 1917, and was again deported without trial to England. He escaped and returned to Ireland in June, 1917. He was rearrested in November, 1917, and sentenced to nine months' imprisonment for a seditious speech. He was released in ill-health in February, 1918, and was rearrested in March of that year. He was sent to Belfast Prison to complete his sentence, and was discharged in broken health on September 6. In spite of his condition he was rearrested at the jail gates and was deported without trial or charge to England. He was released without explanation or apology in March, 1919. Warrants were issued for his arrest in September, 1919, November, 1919, January, 1920, and March, 1920. Many efforts were made to arrest him. He was finally arrested on August 12, 1920, was for the fourth time deported to England."

Perhaps the best explanation of the whole matter, as well as the best side-light on MacSwiney's character, that has so far reached this country is contained in the issue of the Cork Weekly Examiner for Saturday, August 21, which contains a detailed account of the court martial which sentenced the Lord Mayor.

MAYOR'S POSITION

In MacSwiney's reply to questions, and especially in the brief statement which he was permitted to make, is set forth his own position and the position taken by the Sinn-Fein revolutionists in general. The account concludes with the Lord Mayor's declaration that, whatever the British Government might do, he would be free, alive or dead, within a month. To quote from The Examiner:

"A district court martial, over which Lieutenant-Colonel James, South Staffordshire Regiment, presided, assembled at Victoria Barracks, Cork, on Monday, when the following charges were preferred against the Right Honorable Terence MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork: (1) That "without lawful authority or excuse he, being in possession of a cipher on August 12, which cipher was the numerical cipher issued to the Royal Irish Constabulary; (2) having this under his control; (3) being in possession of a document containing statements likely to cause disaffection to his Majesty. This document was the resolution (an amended one) passed by the Corporation acknowledging the authority of, and pledging allegiance to, Dail Eireann; (4) copy of the speech the Lord

Moon Follows 'Trenches' Fate; Is Dark Tonight

This is a discouraging season for the bright lights of night.

First it was the "Trenches" which got in bad with the authorities—now it's the moon which is to have the snuffer clamped down by the solar constabulary, who have evidently taken a lead from Chief Hsu and are going to call a halt for one evening at least on the jazzy effects of those intoxicatingly romantic beams.

There's to be a total eclipse tonight.

Siccawei Observatory announces the following time schedule for the event:

8:26 p.m.—in shadow.
9:29 p.m.—totality.
10:11 p.m.—middle.

Mayor made when elected as successor to Lord Mayor MacCurtain.

"The members of the court were: Major Percival, Essex Regiment, and Captain Reeves, Hampshire Regiment. Captain Gover prosecuted.

ARMED GUARD

"The Lord Mayor, who has not partaken of any food since his arrest, showed signs of the ordeal he is going through. He was accommodated with an armchair placed between two soldiers carrying rifles.

"Every person before being allowed to proceed to the court had his or her name and address entered in a book, and they were also subject to a search.

"When asked if represented by counsel, the Lord Mayor said: "I would like to say a word about your proceedings here. The position is that I am Lord Mayor of Cork and Chief Magistrate of this city. And I declare this court illegal, and that those who take part in it are liable to arrest under the laws of the Irish Republic."

"He was then asked if he objected to the personnel of the court, and replied: "What I have said covers that."

When asked to plead, his Lordship said to the President: "Without wishing in any way to be personal to you, I want to point out that you are guilty of an act of presumption to question me."

President: "Any statement that you wish to make later on will be taken down."

"The Lord Mayor: "It is not necessary to take anything that I say down. It is only attaching importance to the proceedings."

"The prosecutor (Captain Gover), outlining the case for the prosecution, said that the four charges were grave, but their gravity was increased by the position "held by the accused."

PROSECUTOR'S ATTITUDE

"Because of the high office he held," added the prosecutor, "I would like to say that I regret accused is not professionally represented, and the attitude he adopted toward the court—not to recognize it or not defend himself. That threw on the court, and on him as prosecutor, the greater responsibility, and he mentioned that any cause of doubt in the proving of the charges the court should construe it to the benefit of accused.

"He proceeded that on August 12 a party of military, with officers in charge, went to the City Hall, arriving there between 7:30 and 8 p.m. They surrounded the hall, and an officer would give evidence that he went to the back of the hall, and there climbed a wall with a private. When this officer got over that wall he saw eleven men coming out of the back door of the hall.

"There men went into a hut—a workshop—and the officer going there, put a guard over them. One of this guard—a private—said three or four of them were tearing up papers, and one of these men was the accused. This fact was reported to the officer, who came and put accused and the other two men away from the others. A private searched the hut, and found behind the corrugated iron, near the place where accused was standing, an envelope addressed to the Commandant, First Cork Battalion, Irish Republican Army, Cork. Shortly after that accused and the other ten men were put under arrest and brought to Victoria Barracks, where they arrived about 10 p.m.

"Subsequently evidence was presented to show MacSwiney's connection with the revolutionists. The report continues:

TAKES THE FLOOR

"The Lord Mayor in response to the President's request if he had anything to say, rose, from his seat.

"The President: "You can remain seated, Mr. MacSwiney."

"The Lord Mayor: 'I believe I will be able to hold on my feet until after the close of these proceedings, and then it is immaterial. These proceedings, as I have said, are quite illegal.

" 'Anything I have to say is not in defense, and it is in the written statement, parts of which are made the subjects of charges here in this illegal court. You have got to realize, and will have to realize it before very long, that the Irish Republic is really existing.

" 'I want to remind you of the fact that the gravest offense that can be committed by any individual is an offense against the head of a state. The offense is only relatively less great when committed against the head of a city, and the illegality is very much more grave when in addition to seizing that person, his building and private room is violated and his papers taken. I wish to reverse the position and for the moment put you, gentlemen, in the dock.

" 'One of the documents seized is a resolution relating to our allegiance to the Government of the Republic. There was quite a similar document there, too.

"It was a resolution drawing attention to the verdict and inquest on my predecessor, in which a jury found a unanimous verdict that the British Government and its police were guilty of his murder. And now it must be obvious to you that if that were an invention, it would be so grave a matter that it would be the chief charge here today, even in this illegal court. But that document is put aside, and I am gratified to be here today, notwithstanding all its inconveniences and other annoyances, to have that brought out, because this action in putting that document aside is an admission, an assent to a plea of guilty on behalf of those who committed the murder. That being the position, you must know that holding the office I do is absolutely grave for me, in view of the way my predecessor was sent to his death. I can not say but that the same will happen to me myself, at any moment.

We always regard soldiers as others than policemen, and though misguided in coming to this country, as still men of honor. I knew where the code was, but did not know who separated it from other documents; but it must have been done to make two charges against two individuals. No one is responsible but me. I know where that paper was and where it was sworn to be.

"My respect for your army, little though it was, owing to happenings in this country of late, has now disappeared. It is a document that ought to be only in my possession. No one else could have it without my consent without committing an offense. Any one who used such cipher to transmit messages about the Irish people is guilty of a crime against the Irish Republic.

"My entire answer to this court, or any court, is the document the original of which you have seized."

The court then retired, and after an absence of fifteen minutes, during which time the Lady Mayoress conversed in Irish with the Lord Mayor, returned to court when the President announced that the findings were not guilty on the first charge and guilty on the second, third, and fourth.

The Lord Mayor: "I wish to state that I will put a limit to any term of imprisonment you may impose as a result of the action I will take. I have taken no food since Thursday; therefore, I will be free in a month."

The President: "On sentence to imprisonment you will take no food?"

Lord Mayor: "I simply say that I have decided the term of my detention whatever your Government may do, I shall be free, alive or dead, within a month."

EMBEZZLER SENTENCED

At the Mixed Court yesterday, before British Assessor Blackburn and Magistrate Kwan, Yui Chinfang, ex-maneger and shroff of the Yuen Chong Sing Coal Hong, was sentenced to one year's imprisonment for embezzling from his employers the sum of $1,702.-83 between the 11th moon last year and 2nd moon this year. The Court found the prisoner guilty of the offence as charged and declared that the seriousness of the crime deserved a heavier term of imprisonment.

A number of account books were presented in evidence to show the amounts collected by the accused and converted to his own use, facts which he admitted and denied, then on cross-examination again admitted and denied, much to the amazement of the judges.

Dr. H. C. Mei appeared for the prosecution and Mr. M. L. Heen for the accused.

Shanghai Tariffs To Be Effective Under New Treaty

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 22.—The State Department explains that the Sino-American Treaty, signed yesterday, which provides for graduated increases in the import duties on tobacco, sugar, spirits and luxuries into China is designed to put into effect the revised tariffs, recommended by the International Tariff Commission at Shanghai in 1918. These schedules were accepted by the other parties to the Treaty of 1903, under which import duties were limited to 5 percent ad valorem.

Partisan Forces Enter Chita To Join Assembly; Luska Is Commander

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladivostok, October 26.—A wireless message received here from Chita states that the Partisan forces are entering Chita and joining up with the Assembly forces, who recognise Luksa as Commander-in-Chief. There has been a demonstration by the whole population of the town in favor of the Assembly. Communication has been established with Nerchinsk. Ten Partisan forces which were previously operating independently have now established contact.

The President of the Chita Assembly has telegraphed to the Vladivostok Government, expressing confidence that everything will remain the same and requesting Vladivostok to dispatch delegates to Chita quickly for a conference, adding that the Japanese mission has sent a wireless message to General Oi, requesting him to assist their journey from Chita.

SEEK TO AVOID FIGHT

The revolutionary representatives have requested Verzbitski, the Commander of General Kappel's troops, to recognise the Assembly and thus to avoid fighting. Up to the present no reply has been received from Verzbitski.

Peking, October 26.—The Chinese report that the Russians who are invading Outer Mongolia are Partisans is believed to be incorrect.

The fact that General Ungern was recently on the Mongolian border, and his close connection with Ataman Semenoff, together with the remembrance of the latter's earlier Mongolian schemes, create the belief that Ungern is at the head of the invaders, in collusion with Semenoff.

Russian residents here point out that, though the Partisans were sufficiently reckless to indulge their hatred of the Japanese by the Nikolaievsk outburst, they have no special interest in Mongolia, their chief aim being the downfall of Semenoff. Moreover, they have hitherto shown a friendly disposition towards the Chinese, while Semenoff's precarious position in Dauria may have created a desire to prepare fresh fields of activity beyond the reach of their brother Russians.

OBSCURE SCHEME

The whole invasion scheme, however, is very obscure. There is nothing to indicate whether the invaders' intention is to loot Urga and escape before the arrival of Chinese troops, or to found a new administration in the style of d'Annunzio and Zeligowski.

In the meantime it is announced that 5,000 Chinese troops are on their way to Urga from Heilungkiang, with a machine-gun squadron. If necessary, large reinforcements will follow.

Peking, Oct. 26.—Vague reports have recently been reaching Peking to the effect that a force of 3,000 Partisans are marching on Urga.

The Chinese Commandant on Saturday requested the Government to send reinforcements to Urga immediately and a telegram, received on Sunday, states that fighting has begun there.

ABANDON WIRELESS

Another message says that the new wireless station is being evacuated as it is in the line of fire.

Travellers, arriving here from Urga, state that Russians in Mongolia are plotting an armed expedition against Urga and some Anfuites, who fled to the hills after the Anfuite defeat, are apparently mixed up in the Russian movement, the object of which is up to the present very obscure, but it is not believed that the Partisans are acting independently.

Train Is Fired On By Chinese Soldiers

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, October 26.—An express train from Canton to Kowloon, carrying a large number of refugees, when passing Pimgfu in Chinese territory was fired at by Chinese soldiers. The fire was directed at the third class compartments, many of the windows of which were shattered. Two Chinese were wounded and were taken to hospital but no Europeans were injured.

The manager of the British section of the railway announces that, owing to the unsettled conditions at Canton, the through train service to Canton will be suspended.

Jail Schoolmaster For Cruelty To Wife

A schoolmaster named Yue Zen-yung, charged with cruelty to his wife, was sentenced to two years' imprisonment by Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Kwan in the Mixed Court yesterday and the marriage was ordered annulled.

The testimony showed that the man and woman had been married for seven years, during which time the wife had been forced by her partner's cruelty to leave home five times. She was cared for during one period of two years by the Door of Hope mission. The court action followed an attack which the schoolmaster made upon his spouse with a chopper on the 27th of last month. The woman was severely cut about the head and was in hospital for nearly a month. The defendant denied the charges of continual cruelty and said that he had merely wanted to frighten his wife into a state of submission. He will be expelled from the Settlement at the expiration of his prison term.

RADICALISM IS CONDEMNED BY JAPAN MINISTERS

Readjustment Of Prices And Food Supplies Discussed At Conference

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Fukuoka, October 25.—A meeting of members of the Seiyukai in Kyushu has been held here and attended by six Cabinet Ministers. The trend of the declarations and speeches was to condemn radicalism and advocate conservatism.

The resolutions adopted urged, inter alia, the completion of a plan for insuring food supplies and the readjustment of prices, the construction of a tunnel under the straits of Shimonoseki, and the establishment of a direct steamer service between Nagasaki and Shanghai.

Mr. Okazaki, a leading member of the Seiyukai, made a lengthy defense of the policies of the party. He said: "Recently the Reconstructionists have advocated extreme views, and some have even urged the abolition of Parliament and a resort to direct action, but any attempt to do away with Parliament must be regarded as traitorous. The opposition accuse us of being conservative, but we must maintain an orderly and responsible administration."

To Force A Convict Out Of Sing Sing

Charles Ortner Could Have Gone Free Two Years Ago, But Insisted On Staying

Ossining, Sept. 4.—Officials of Sing Sing announced today that they were making preparations to throw Charles Ortner, a stubborn inmate, out of the prison. He could not be coaxed to leave.

Ortner was eligible for parole nearly two years ago, but refused all invitations to sign his parole application and leave. He received an indeterminate sentence of from two to four years in Queens County. He had been charged with assaulting Alexander Gross, a fellow employe, in a mill in Whitestone, L. I., with an iron weight.

When his minimum sentence expired, nearly two years ago, Warden William H. Moyer tried to induce Ortner to sign a parole application and leave Sing Sing. He refused to sign anything. Later Warden Edward V. Brophy coaxed him to go home.

"The Judge said two to four years," protested Ortner, "and nothing about signing anything. So I will not sign; I'm perfectly contented here."

Major Lewis E. Lawes, the Warden, admitted today that Sing Sing officials have given up all hope of getting rid of Ortner by peaceful persuasion.

"His time is nearly up," said Major Lawes, "and we are going to put him out bodily."

Ortner has been doing hard, laborious work in Sing Sing, but this has not prejudiced him against prison life there. Because of his "staying qualities," the officials let him work outside the walls as a "trusty." He is the only prisoner attendants would wager could not be tempted to escape if left unguarded. When his maximum four years sentence expires, very soon, Ortner need not sign a parole application, as he will have served the full sentence in prison and therefore must be discharged absolutely free and not placed on parole.

Chinese Troops Are Leaving Urga But Situation Is Unexplained

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, Oct. 26.—The Mongolian situation has taken a sudden turn and Chinese troops are evacuating Urga on account of disturbances, according to a radio message sent by the Marconi station a few li South of Urga and caught in Peking this morning.

The message simply said: "This our last message abandoning station account disturbances."

Peking is greatly puzzled over the situation in Mongolia.

A Cabinet meeting was in session today to discuss emergency measures. It is expected that a Presidential Mandate will be promulgated tonight, ordering Chang Tso-ling, Tuchun of Fengtien, to organise an expedition to Mongolia for the relief of Chinese forces there.

A Kalgan telegram states that the motor car service between there and Urga had been suspended.

Foreigners leaving Urga few days ago heard nothing of any impending Russian invasion, but it is believed here that the Chita partisans, after their victory over General Semenoff, have sent a expedition to relieve their countrymen. Others believe that the Ungern forces now opposed by both the Chita Partisans and Semenoff and having no other place to go, are retreating to Urga.

Whatever party may have entered Urga, it is certain that the invaders have the connivance of the Mongolian authorities.

Natives In Attack On Policemen At Port Elizabeth

(Reuter's Service)

Port Elizabeth, Cape Colony, Oct. 25.—Following upon the arrest of a native leader, a crowd of natives rushed the police-station here. The police maintained a resistance for a considerable time but were at length driven out.

The situation necessitated the summoning of soldier reinforcements, who opened fire and ultimately dispersed the mob. The casualties numbered 50, including 14 killed, of whom two were Europeans.

After being driven off from the police-station and pursued from the city, the natives held mass-meetings in their locations in the outskirts of the city.

The following day they twice attacked the electric power-station. The police were ultimately forced to fire, killing one and wounding seven others.

An unsuccessful attempt was also made to set fire to a huge petrol store. The natives further succeeded in cutting all the telegraph and telephone wires out of the city except those to Cape Town.

Reinforcements are being hurriedly despatched from Cradock and Grahamstown.

The city is now quiet. The casualties number 22 killed and 41 wounded.

CONVICT TURNS INVENTOR

Former War Spy And Swindler Designs Airship And Canal Boat

Ossining, N. Y., Sept. 4.—Max Lynar, alias Count Loudon, former war spy and international swindler, who defrauded investors out of over $1,000,000 before he was landed in Sing Sing, has turned out to be an inventor there.

Lynar has invented a combination freight and passenger airship and has shown the model to Major Lewis E. Lawes, the Warden. He has also invented a self-propelled barge canal boat which will carry 1,000 tons of freight, or double the capacity of any canal boat that can now pass through the New York State barge canal. Lynar received the first papers from the United States Patent Office securing the patents against infringement or theft.

Lynar became notorious during the European war. He was reputed to be a German spy. He went about this country before the United States entered the war, promoting fraudulent war munition corporations and selling thousands of dollars worth of worthless stock in them. He professed to have invented an unsinkable ship, into which many careless investors sank thousands of dollars. He has several more months to serve.

on the issue, finding itself between the devil of the Tuchuns and the deep sea of decentralisation. Although the government has no desire to continue as the puppet of the most-powerful Tuchun of the time-being, or, worse still, the foot-ball between two rival military factions of approximately equal strength, it hesitates to give up its at least theoretical claims to the administration of the country in exchange for a more federalised system.

HARD-COURT TOURNAMENT TO BE DROPPED BECAUSE SPONSOR CAN'T BE FOUND

Local Tennis Devotees Have Probably Lost Last Chance Of Year To See Court Stars In Action—Interport Team Ready—Cricketers Leave On Monday

By "Forehand"

It begins to appear as though the 1920 hardcourt tournament, scheduled to be held on the courts of the Cercle Sportif Francaise (French Club), would have to be abandoned this year.

Not because of any lack of interest in such an event, but because no one seems to be willing to accept responsibility for its success.

Mr. J. Elmore, who was to have been the "father" of the tournament this year, finds himself unable to assume the burdens of paternity, because of business which will take him away from the Settlement during the progress of the event; and no one seems to be available to take his place.

This seems indeed unfortunate, as it was rumored about Shanghai that there were many excellent tennis players who were ready and eager to try conclusion with their fellows who had been more fortunate on the green courts. However, since the French Club possesses only three good hard courts it might have been difficult to conclude the tournament on scheduled time, especially with the Autumn Race Meet intervening.

INTERPORTERS READY

Meanwhile the Interport team is reported to be in fine fettle for the meet with Hongkong at the latter port next month. Carnavarro is said to be in especially good shape, while Pott is reported to be practicing daily at St. John's, against Mr. Roberts, and Tanaka is said to be equally assiduous on the courts of his club.

Harry Ollerdessen, who is leaving next Monday night for the Crown Colony with the cricket team, is said to be in prime shape for a battle, whether it be on the cricket ground or the courts. It is likely, whether Mr. Toussaint goes or not, that he will be seen on both.

LEAVING MONDAY

The Tri-port Cricket team, by the way, will leave for Hongkong on Monday evening instead of Sunday, as previously announced. Arrangements could not be completed for the original sailing, so the date has been delayed 24 hours.

The team, however, will not attempt another practice before leaving for the Crown Colony.

PRINCE'S GOLF COURSE FINE, SAYS MITCHELL

British Expert Visits Famous Seaside Links And Finds Them Picturesque

BY ABE MITCHELL

Before going away to Scotland on a sort of "business holiday" I visited Prince's, in Sandwich, the course which adjoins Royal St. George's; and which, in the opinion of many, provides the first test in the world.

Truly they are splendid links. Situated close to the sea, one sees the world's ships passing, while in the distance is the wonder place Richborough, which did so much in the way of transport during the war.

Prince's is a man's course and a hard one at that. It certainly demands your very best driving.

I was fortunate in the weather, but even with the wind slight, the driving keeps one always at full stretch, not because the carries are too long but because there is a feeling that you can gain something useful by taking some risk and cutting off a piece of the corner, as it were.

Almost every hole gives this impression, though they are not by any means dog legged. Indeed there are many fine straight shots to be played from the tee.

DESCRIBES THE HOLES

At the first hole, which is slightly dog legged, the line is to keep a shade to the left; but if you care to you may cut off a bit by playing straight on the flag. If you slice at all, the bents will effectually prevent you from getting anywhere near a four, but if you keep to the left, not an easything to do with any wind blowing across from right then the second shot, though maybe a longish one, is still on. The second shots at Prince's are, I think, quite as testing as the tee shots, as the greens are well bunkered.

But, of course, on a sandy soil, one knows that the ball will do the correct thing if it has been hit in the center of the club, so a good kick is as often looked for as a bad one.

There is one hole which is not unlike the famous Alps at Prestwick, with the distinction that the green is not in such a deep hollow and in consequence, the second shot is really much harder, as there is a fall away to the right where almost every stranger will finish at his first visit.

'COASTGUARD HOLE'

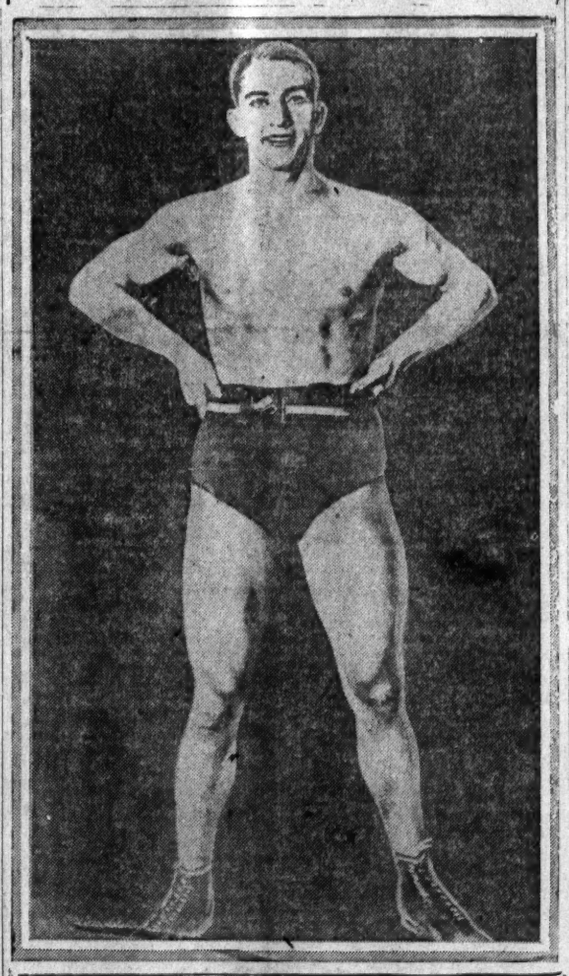
Then there is that hole which crosses near to the Coastguard's Station. Stand on the tee and look at the carry, and nine out of ten inland golfers will probably think that it is impossible to get over.

It certainly does look a long way over that belt of sandhills, which are very much higher than the tee from which you drive. But all such holes where the tee is low appear further away than they really are.

One great point in the lay-out of the course is the fact that there is a way into all the holes. Thus, a well-placed drive will, in most cases, give a fairly easy shot to the hole, or a well placed second will make the approach a shade easier.

Some golf architects of the present day appear to think that a well-placed drive should not simplify the second shot, but that does not make for pleasant golf.

How Does He Look?



GEORGES CARPENTIER

Here is the famous French pugilist who is to meet Jack Dempsey for the heavyweight Championship of the world in New York next month.

DOMINATED FRENCH TURF

It was always a source of regret to American turfmen that the late W. K. Vanderbilt did not take the same degree of interest in racing in America as he did in France, where he dominated of winning owners in the decade from 1900 to 1910. His establishment at Haras du Quesnay is one of the most extensive in France, and from it has come many famous horses. He was devoted to his American trainer, Duke, who hails from Wellsville, N. Y., and to Frankie O'Neill, the rider, who was born in St. Louis.

It was about twenty years ago that Mr. Vanderbilt paid the late C. F. Fleischman $25,000 for the Hanover horse Halma. At the same time he bought a number of mares from Pierre Lorillard, and these he sent abroad. Halma appears in the pedigree of some of the best of the horses that won in France for Mr. Vanderbilt, and Oversight, to which he was breeding extensively this year, carries much of that horse's blood. Among the fine animals bred and raced in France by him were Prestige, Maintenon, Tchad, Sea Sick, Northeast and Brumelli. He won every classic on the French turf at one time or another, and was victorious for the Grand Prix de Paris with Northeast in 1908, and again in 1917 with Brumelli, a filly which carried the blood of the American mare Buela, by Bramble.

For the current year, taking the figures up to July 1, Mr. Vanderbilt was third on the list of winning owners in France, being headed by M. Eknayan and Baron Edouard de Rothschild. As the stable was going strong and winning a lot of races of late, it is probable that he would have been at the top again this year.

Warns Promoters Of Boxing Bouts To Be Reasonable

Senator James J. Walker, father of the measure which restored boxing to New York State, has sounded a warning to the promoters of the sport and members of the press.

"Boxing is back," said Senator Walker, "but I say right here that the man in the street, above all others, must be catered to. He must be protected and there must not be any outlandish prices charged for any contest, no matter how important. Prices must be adjusted to conform with the pocket book of the man in the street.

"If the time ever comes when the man in the street is not protected that will mean the end of boxing. The sport is on probation and it will last just so long as it is properly conducted."

Says American Golf Links Are Superior To England

Declaring emphatically that American golf courses are far superior to the English ones which she visited, Mrs. R. Percy Thompson, Secretary of the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association, is back from a two months' trip to Europe and yesterday resumed her work of mapping out a Fall schedule for the local linkswomen. While in England Mrs. Thompson visited many of the famous courses, spending some time at Walton Heath, Addington and Stoke Poges. She found the English putting greens in excellent condition, due to the careful, painstaking work spent on them daily, but she is emphatic in declaring that American fairways and other features of a golf course, such as club houses, are vastly better. Mrs. Thompson will direct the women's one-day tourney today at the Hollywood Golf Club, Deal, N. J., the first on the Autumn schedule.

CHIN WOO A.A. READY FOR BIG TWO-DAY SHOW

More Than 2,000 Entries For Great Anniversary Meet This Week-End

Plans for the two-day celebration of the tenth anniversary of the Chin Woo Athletic Association, at the association ground on October 30-31 are now complete. Approximately 2,000 students, of both sexes, representing twenty-five local schools will participate in the celebration, each school having a special tent on the ground. More than 50,000 tickets of admission will be distributed.

Three platforms for performers have been erected, and are being decorated in the colors of the association—red, yellow and blue. About 180 Boy Scouts will take part on the second day of the program.

MANY COME FROM AFAR

Representatives from Singapore, Colombo and Penang will arrive here on Friday to participate in the anniversary. The municipal band will play on both days and the tramway will run additional cars for the accommodation of the crowds.

Beside the exhibitions of Chinese boxing, fencing and gymnastics there will be musical performances, cinema shows, vaudeville "stunts," dancing and plays.

Over fifty trophies have been received by the association from local business organisations. Silver cups, shields, tablets, etc., have been received from the local schools.

The Canton branch has sent two huge kites about 18 feet in height, to be flown on the days of celebration. The orchestra of the Labor Union has presented two dancing lions, while a 500-catty bell is the present of the Walking Club of the Chin Woo Athletic Association.

BRITISH FOOTBALL TAKES ON NEW PHASES; EXPERT DISCUSSES THE CHANGES

"Transfer System," Thought To Be Boon, Proves To Be Boomerang; Should Encourage Younger Generation And Not Depend Upon Oldsters

By "H. J. H."

(From London Daily Mail)

A football season which has opened very much as usual in regard to the character of the play and the enthusiasm of the crowds has behind it a significant difference.

The personnel of most of the League clubs has changed little, whereas in the past it changed much. Last year and for many years the transfer of players from one club to another at great expense stood among the "features" of a new season. Many of the stars of the north had gone south; many of the stars of the south had gone north.

Directors pointed out with pride that a new forward line—probably obtained from the other end of England—had cost thousands of pounds. People with a mind for statistics discovered that the market value of many prominent players worked out at not less than seventeen and three-pence an ounce. But there have been few notable transfers this season.

TRANSFER SYSTEM

The transfer system was introduced to meet an emergency and to prevent abuses. With no long residential qualification necessary, as in cricket, before a footballer is eligible to play for a particular club, the system aims to prevent subterfuge and the poaching of players. But even those who regard it as necessary also regard it as evil.

Now it may be that in a few weeks' time, when some of the clubs discover that they are losing matches through weakness in positions which players on the transfer lists could be purchased to fill, the old custom of buying a well-established forward or back will return.

But at the moment it looks as if the clubs are willing to experiment new methods. It looks as if they are prepared at last to search for and to develop "local talent."

MANY ARE GONE

The war checked or ended the career of many a player of promise. For this reason the veteran has lingered longer in first-class football than would have been the case in normal circumstances. But the time has come when the health and future of the game depend upon the encouragement given to a new generation.

In the past Southern clubs in particular have been prone to turn a blind eye to the possibilities of the raw material within their gates, and to see only the fully developed material in the north. They have preferred to transfer rather than to train. The old policy is not practical in new circumstances. Clubs cannot go on playing a game of battledore and shuttlecock with men of famous names for ever.

LEARN FROM CRICKETERS

In some directions football clubs might learn something from the cricket clubs. It is often said that the cricket counties are ultra-conservative, far behind the football organisations in business acumen. But at least they have a ready encouragement for young players of promise. They invite schoolboys to practice at the nets. They are willing to give a trial in a minor match to anyone with a reasonable record.

There is no reason why young and even raw local footballers who suggest that they have an instinct for the game should not be invited to the League grounds for practice and coaching. There is no reason why football "nurseries" should not be established by the League clubs. And when the possibilities of local players are recognised, as they appear likely to be recognised at last, the League teams may become that which they now only pretend to be—the representative football strength of a particular town or district.

Chinese At Kashing Give Welcome To U.S. Admiral

(China Press Correspondence)

Kashing, October 24.—One of the most interesting events in the history of Kashing was the visit of Admiral Gleaves, Commander-in-Chief United States Asiatic Fleet to Kashing. A telegram received by the city officials from Shanghai stated that the distinguished guest was on his way to Hangchow, and would meet the Kashing officials. The latter left no stone unturned in their preparations. The city mayor sent a delegation to request Mr. Lowry Dant to act as interpreter and master of ceremonies.

Mr. Hsia, local commander of 1,700 soldiers, joined with the mayor in preparing a specially fitted Chinese boat of the old style for a reception to the Admiral. Commander Yu of the local squadron of gun-boats and Mr. Nyin, secondary military official to the commander, with hundreds of soldiers and flags also waited on the shore of the Grand Canal for the coming of the Admiral. The Governors of Chekiang Province, both Civil and Military, sent a representative with a gun-boat as escort from Kashing to Hangchow.

ARRIVAL OF ADMIRAL

Admiral Glaves with four officers, accompanied by Mr. S. K. Chen, Adviser to the Military Governors of Kiangsu and Chekiang, with other friends, arrived at seven o'clock p.m. The representatives of the local government, led by the interpreter who presented the card of each official in order of importance and translated into English, went on board the Admiral's launch where they were accorded a most hearty reception. The Admiral stated that he had never been treated with more cordiality anywhere and expressed his great friendship and respect for the Chinese people.

MOONLIGHT CRUISE

After a few minutes of pleasantry, the Kashing officials invited the Admiral to take a moonlight cruise A-la-ancient-Chinese-official-gondola, through a series of winding canals and under old bridges. The writer has never seen a more democratic or friendly reception. The Admiral and party insisted on sitting out on the front of the boat with the boatmen, in order to watch the methods of locomotion, and expressed themselves on the similarity between Kashing and Venice.

After half an hour's ride the boat landed at the famous South Lake Island, so well known as the "Place of Charming Mist and Magic Waters," rendered immortal in Chinese eyes by the visit of the Emperor Chi'en Lung. Brilliant alcohol lamps made the island light as the distinguished guests landed and proceeded to inspect the various ancient slabs prepared by the Emperor or others. The so called "false mountains" made of rocks from mountain tops, and corroded by time and rains excited the admiration of the visitors.

CHINESE FEAST

At 8 p.m. a feast of birds' nests, sharks' fins, fungus, with foreign delicacies was served, and greatly enjoyed.

A picture of the island was presented to Admiral Gleaves as a memorial of the visit, the Chinese graciously speaking of him as the Second Ch'ien Lung who had visited the island. Suitable inscriptions both in English and Chinese were written on the picture in Chinese fashion.

The Admiral's visit marks another stage in the ever increasing love and friendship of China and America.

The body was placed in the public cemetery and notification sent to the local Defense Commissioner.

DEFENDANTS GET JUDGMENT, COSTS, IN 'LIGHTS' CASE

Judgment for the defendants was delivered yesterday in the British Supreme Court in the "Ancient Light" case of Tam Wa and the British and Foreign Bible Society versus Messrs. Atkinson and Dallas. Because of the extreme importance of the case Judge Skinner Turner fixed the scale for costs on that exceeding $10,000 after announcing that he had certified for two counsel.

The claim was for an easement of light and air, for an injunction to restrain the owners for the time being of one piece of land from so building as to interfere with those advantages by the adjoining land.

The claim was based solely on the fact that at one time all the land belonged to one owner and that he transferred a piece with a house on it prior to or simultaneously with a transfer of the other piece which had no house upon it, the Judge said.

The property in question is on Peking Road.

The Bandman Company

Those who revel in desert sand, star-sprinkled and dress-coat illumined, will scarcely fail to drop in at the Lyceum tonight and see the dramatised version of Robert Hichens' fantasy, "The Voice From The Minaret," which will be given there for the last time (in quite a while, anyway) by the excellent Bandman Company.

One of the best parts about the Bandman company, one might say, is its manager—and Phil Carlton, unfortunately, has no part in the Hichens drama, unless he plays the "Voice," which is unlikely.

Be that as it may, the performance is well in keeping with the best standards of the company. Miss Pratt, in the leading feminine role, did a clever bit of work as Lady Caryll, while Mr. Twiss, as Andrew Fabian, was more than satisfactory. The rest were adequate.

The cast was as follows:

Andrew Fabian .....O. Twiss
Father Elsworthy .. ..Percy Baverstock
Sir Leslie Caryll ...Carl Lawson
Selim .....Leon Yaymen
A. Waiter ...Norman Thompson
Astley .....Forbes Russell
Lady Caryll ..Violet Blyth Pratt
Mrs. Fabian ....Muriel Johnston
Miss Rodd ...Beryl Barraclough

Reports have reached Shanghai of an attack by pirates upon a launch owned by a local transportation company while the boat was passing through the Yang Zang Ho lake, near Soochow, Saturday. The district authorities were notified and search is being made for the pirates.

Obituary

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, October 26.—The death took place here this morning of Mr. James Fearon, ex-Chairman of the Shanghai Municipal Council.

Mr. James Sturgis Fearon was one of China's oldest foreign residents. He came to Shanghai in 1876 and founded the firm of Fearon, Rowe and Company, which later became Fearon, Daniel and Company, and was connected with the latter organisation until about a year ago.

A resident of Shanghai off and on for over 43 years, the late Mr. Fearon was a prime mover in many local enterprises. He established the International Bank in Shanghai, was formerly chairman of the Shanghai Municipal Council, and as chairman of the Shanghai Race Club, was one of the factors in building the club and the present recreation ground. He was active in many local civic and commercial projects up to about a year ago when he moved to Tientsin.

Mr. Fearon was born in Australia about 75 years ago and later became a naturalised American, coming to China from the United States. He leaves a widow, and a son, Robert I. Fearon, a broker, of Shanghai; a son, Frank Fearon, of Tientsin, and a daughter, Mrs. C. R. Burkill of Shanghai, who is now in England. Mrs. Fearon and Mr. Robert Fearon left here Monday morning for Tientsin.

Former Chairman Of Municipal Council Tells Civic League Of Local Government

mation of the Settlements, but no definite decision was reached until September 21, 1863, when the American community met and resolved upon union with the British Settlement. After considerable discussion between British, American and Chinese officials, as well as the then Municipal Council, the union was agreed to, and the so-called American Settlement came under the Land Regulations in common with the so-called English Settlement.

The so-called French Settlement which had in the meantime grown up on the South side of the Yangkingpang, came in at first, but afterwards special action was taken by the French Government and a code of municipal regulations applying to that Settlement was published in July, 1866. Since that date the French Settlement has always been administered by a Municipal Council of its own.

REVISE CODE IN 1882

The new code of land regulations received the sanction of the Diplomatic Body in 1869. The control of the Council vested in the Consular Body under the code proved a fruitful source of friction, for it was contended that a self governing community might well dispense therewith. Accordingly in 1881, the regulations were again revised and an attempt made to vest the Council with almost absolute powers. Bye-laws were to be made, altered or repealed without reference to the Diplomatic Body, plenary powers were to be vested in the police, etc., etc.

The Diplomatic Body, however, amended this code so as to restrict the Council's powers very largely to that of an executive body only; the approval of all the Consuls and of the Chinese authorities, and of all the Diplomatic Body in Peking was required for any amendment of the bye-laws, the police powers were considerably modified, and finally any decision of the ratepayers in the case of matters not dealt with specifically in the Code, required Consular approval.

The new code then amended was submitted after further revision to the Diplomatic Body in 1883, but was not passed until 1898, when the Taotai expressed his unconcern in municipal regulations which he stated were a matter for arrangement between the Council and the Consular Body.

IS PRESENT CODE

With certain modifications, this is the code under which the Foreign Settlement is administered by a Council of not more than nine or less than five, elected annually by foreign land renters and ratepayers, who have their parliament or meeting once a year, when a report of the work of the Council for the past year and the estimates for the next year are presented for consideration.

Apart from this annual parliament, ratepayers have facilities under the Land Regulations for calling special parliaments or meetings when it is desired to deal with any matter which cannot or should not be left over for decision by the annual parliament, and thus the administration of the Settlement by the Council is at times subject to shrcfing by the ratepayers.

In matters affecting relations between the Council and the Chinese Authorities the channel of communication is, as a general rule, the Consular Body. Judical powers over foreigners are under the grant of extraterritoriality vested in the Consular Courts of the foreigners concerned or in the case of unrepresented foreigners or Chinese, in the Mixed Court, which was established in 1864.

The Council has the right to sue in these Courts, and is in turn sued in a Court elected from the Consuls of the Treaty Powers and known as the Court of Consuls. The Municipal Police Force provides the executive for all these Courts. No arrests can, as a general rule, be made except upon a warrant of the proper court, and in the case of the Mixed Court countersigned by the Senior Consul. Since 1911 the execution of Mixed Court summons and warrants has been entrusted to the Municipal Police.

SETTLEMENT EXTENDED

With regard to the Extension of the Settlement from its original area it is interesting to read Taotai Li's Proclamation dated 8th of May, 1899, and handed to the Chairman of the Municipal Council through Monsieur Valdez, Consul General for Portugal and Senior Consul, of the 11th of May, 1899, and is given at length in the annual report of the Shanghai Municipal Council, 1899, Pages 261-264. The following extracts are not without interest. That is the second and last paragraphs of the Proclamation, which read as follows:

Second Paragraph "Whereas later on it was decided to add a new section to the Hongkew Settlement, and on the 13th day of the 5th moon in the 19th year of Kuang Hsu (June 26, 1893) the former Taotai Nieh appointed the District Magistrate of Shanghai Huang as his deputy, who in conjunction with the Consul-General for the United States and Senior Consul-General I fixed the boundaries of the Settlement and put up boundary stones."

Last Paragraph—"Having directed the District Magistrate of Shanghai to join Messrs. Fu (Ferguson) and Yu in co-operating with the President of the Municipal Council in preparing a map and erecting the boundary stones of the International Settlement as it has been determined to extend it; and having communicated with the Consuls of all the powers here represented; let all men know by these present that subsequent to the issue of this Proclamation the entire area of the International Settlement shall be within Municipal control, excepting temples founded by Imperial sanction and sites employed officially by the Chinese Government; with these exceptions, the existing regulations shall operate and must be obeyed."

THE NEW BOUNDARIES

Four boundaries of the Extension of the International Settlement being set forth as follows:

East: From the Yangtszepoo Bridge in the American Settlement to Chou-chia-tsui.

West: From the Loongfei Bridge to the village at the Bubbling Well and from the village by a line drawn to Sinza on the South Bank of the Soochow Creek.

South: From Pahsien Bridge in the French Settlement to the village of the Bubbling Well.

North: From the 5th boundary stone of the Hongkew Settlement to the northern boundary of the Shanghai district, i.e., the boundary of Paoshan to Shanghai district, a straight line being drawn on this from Chou-chia-tsui.

ELECTION OF COUNCILLORS

Under Land Regulation XIX nine councillors are elected annually, a few years ago it was in January, now the elections are held during the month of February.

These nine councillors however do not take over their official duties after the previous council have laid their report and accounts, as well as a budget for the next year, before the ratepayers. The so-called Shanghai Annual Parliament taking place early in April.

At their first meeting these nine gentlemen elect their chairman and vice chairman and then proceed to divide themselves into committees of three each to supervise Finance, Works and Watch.

If I am not boring you, Gentlemen, let us take up each branch and ascertain what it does individually to govern a population which according to the census in 1915 was 18,519 Foreign and 620,400 Chinese. What the population is today will shortly be published as the quinquennial census was taken out on the 16th of this month.

Finance.—Attend to all matters, as the name implies financial, such as:

All salaries, which have to be renewed every three years.
Superannuation Fund.
Revenue and Expenditure, of all departments.
Loans and Redemption of Loans.
Municipal Bank.
Various grants, etc., etc.

FIGURES GIVEN

It is not that I wish to pile you up with figures, Gentlemen, but the following under this head may interest you:

Our estimated ordinary income for 1920, this year, in the last published Budget stands at about 4¾ million taels.

Made up approximately as follows:

	Tls.
Land Tax 7/10 of 10 percent estimated for 1920	1,055,000
General Municipal Rate 14 percent on rents for 1920	2,097,500
7 to 12 percent on outside limits	50,000
Wharfage Dues	350,000
License Fees	622,400

The balance being made up of other items, all detailed in the annual report.

The estimated expenditure is all detailed in the Municipal budget for 1920 and practically absorbs all the income.

The city's total loan indebtedness at the end of 1919 amounted to about Tls. 11,300,000 of which Tls. 6,850,000 was loaned to the electricity department.

It is not generally known that the assessed value of the land owned by the M. C. stands in at close upon six million taels and buildings at about 3¼ million, and that the sundry assets of the Electricity Department stand in our balance sheet at Tls. 12,870,000.

Accounts are all audited of course and published in ample time for any ratepayer to criticise or ask questions thereon at the annual ratepayers meeting.

WORKS DEPARTMENT

Works.—Look after 148 miles of roads and 637,000 ft. of paved and unpaved footways, 49 bridges are controlled and it took 150,000,000 gallons of water to keep them clean during 1919, over 3,000 coolies are employed daily. They also look after all the repairs to Municipal buildings.

Then there are miles of underground drainage. Public lighting and first and second Reserves, and Chinese and Japanese Reserves.

FIRE DEPARTMENT

Fire Brigade—Recently converted from an amateur fire brigade to a professional one, consisting of the Chief Officer, ten foreigners and 235 Chinese. The equipment is the envy of an old fireman like myself, and in every respect is equal to any in the world.

Health, an important subject, covering meteorology, vital statistics, infectious diseases, public health laboratory, Pasteur treatment, hospitals, sanitary inspection, food and cemeteries, also sewage disposal and water supply.

VARIOUS SUB-COMMITTEES

Sub-committees. With almost invariably speaking a member of Council on each.

Electricity—Two councillors and three Ratepayers.

Riverside Land, 100 mow—84 Europeans, 1,671 Chinese.

Permanent Educational Committee.

Foreign Educational Committee Tls. 211,400; pupils 1018.

Chinese Educational Committee Tls. 87,500; pupils 1075.

Band Committee Tls. 69,700.

Parks and open spaces.

Health—Works in conjunction with two members of Council, two local medical practitioners and one ratepayer.

Hospitals, plague prevention vaccination and sanitation generally, including house refuse disposal—Ordure disposal in 1919 brought in an income of Tls. 131,000.

Public library.

All minutes of sub-committees are submitted and confirmed or otherwise by the Council at their weekly meetings.

THE LAND COMMISSION

One other item I have omitted and that is the Land Commission, made up of three ratepayers who arbitrate on the compensation to be paid for land if disputed, that the ratepayers wish to acquire for public purposes.

The secretariat acts as the chief executive of the Council and as a clearing house for all departments so that when, for example, an application is made by the public on a matter which affects both the Public Works and Health Departments the Secretary, whose most responsible duty is really that of remembrancer and general adviser to the Council, takes action to refer to and obtain the views of the heads of these two departments thereafter laying the application and their views before the committee or committees concerned and obtaining their instructions, which, subject to endorsement by the Council when necessary, are communicated to the Departments for their action.

TELLS OF GROWTH

The staff has now grown to a total of approximately 700, including the Foreign branch of the Police Force, which numbers rather over 200. There are also 666 Sikhs in the Police Force, and some 50 Japanese Police. During the past few years in particular the Settlement has shown extraordinary growth in spite of adverse influences, and statistics recently prepared show that Municipal work has increased since the beginning of 1915 by no less than 50 percent. My own experience and I have had more than my fair share, as one of your representatives on the Council, is that the task which a councillor is called upon to perform in the public interest is not by any means a light one, indeed it makes a very severe call upon his time.

I cannot see any possibility of any alleviation: in fact the work of every new councillor with the continued expansion of the Settlement becomes heavier than that of the last, but so long as we can get good men to come forward and serve as councillors I have no hesitation in saying that the system of government, cramped as it is by reason of the all insufficient powers which are vested in the Council, is on the whole a satisfactory one, and that the work which is performed by the permanent staff is most efficient and praiseworthy.

URGES INTEREST IN AFFAIRS

The Council publishes a weekly Gazette giving as much information as is deemed advisable. It is, of course, easy to criticise, but so often criticism is destructive rather than constructive, and founded upon a lack of appreciation of the true facts of the case. It often happens that the Council and the permanent staff are blamed for not doing this, that or the other, when this, that or the other has had to be left undone through lack of requisite powers, or because of financial or other considerations, which are and generally must of necessity be unknown to the public, and thus unappreciated.

In conclusion, gentlemen, I would ask those gentlemen interested in the government of Shanghai to carefully peruse our Land Regulations and Byelaws, Weekly Gazette, and also the Municipal Council annual reports.

Gentlemen, I am afraid that I have much trespassed on the time so kindly allotted to me for this address, but as I said in my opening remarks the question of the evolution of Shanghai and its Municipal Government is one that really requires a comprehensive survey that might well run into hours, days, or for that matter, weeks.

HONGKEW PIRATES GET PRISON TERMS

Mixed Court Sentences Members Of Notorious 'Thirty-Six" Gang

Six members of the "Thirty-six Gang," notorious for its depredations among the boats and boatmen of Hongkew Creek, appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday and were sentenced to terms of two years' imprisonment each and expulsion from the Settlement.

It is one of the favorite practices of this gang, according to the testimony given in court yesterday, for the whole assembly to leap onto a loaded coal barge spilling sometimes as much as two or three tons into the creek whence it is salvaged at low tide. All are proficient swimmers and on the advent of the police are thus enabled rapidly to place the width of the stream between themselves and pursuit.

In the present instance some eight or nine men armed with knives and cargo hooks boarded a boat belonging to a Japanese firm early Sunday evening and, after warning the boatmen not to turn in an alarm, made away with 300 eggs which were a part of the boats cargo. Several hours later the same gang returned and robbed the boatmen of their clothing and money. A report was not made to the police until the following day when search for the robbers was begun and three of the men were arrested who implicated the other three.

In asking a severe sentence D. I. Reeves declared that the operations of the "Thirty-six" fell little short of piracy.

Russians Residing In China Outline Plan To Safeguard Rights

theless intends to preserve with regard to Russian citizens its feelings of traditional friendship and has deemed it necessary to take effective measures for the protection of peaceful Russian citizens residing in China, as well as of their rights and interests personal and material.

The Diplomatic Body on the other hand, anxious not to see the execution of the mandate of September 23 infringe the legal status of Russian citizens, based upon the Treaties, has addressed to the Chinese Government a note dealing with the drawing up, jointly with the Diplomatic Body, of a provisional modus vivendi. This solicitude on the part of the Chinese Government and of the Diplomatic Body encourage the Russians residing in China to seek on their side the best means in existing circumstances for the safeguarding of their rights, carefully avoiding at the same time being involved in the political struggle which is taking place in Russia until the time when a Government of the whole of Russia will have been constituted and generally recognised.

WANT RUSSIAN LAW

Considering consequently that the defense of the personal and material rights and interests of peaceful Russian citizens residing in China can only be conceived under the protection of the Russian Law and by means of Russian institutions in which the application of the Russian language will be maintained, the undersigned, non-political representatives of legally established Russian institutions, beg respectfully to request the assistance of Your Excellency in the taking by the Chinese Government, for the term in which the decree of September 23 will remain in force, of the following measures:

1. The constitution in the Chinese Central Government of a Principal Administration for Russian Affairs, attached to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and consisting of a well-known Chinese dignitary and two Russian Counsellors, attached to him, the latter being appointed by the Chinese Government with the necessary office personnel.

2. The recognition of this Principal Administration for Russian Affairs as the chief central organ for the administration and control of all Russian institutions in China.

3. To leave the legal defense of the personal and material rights of Russian citizens in China, as well as the defense of the same rights of foreigners in their lawsuits against Russians, in the hands of Russian Courts, the office of the Public Prosecutor and the Barristers attached to them, in conformity with the Russian codes of legal procedure, which entirely correspond with the legislation of Western countries which have assimilated this legislation.

PROPOSE CHANGES

4. To admit provisionally and in conformity with the decree of September 23 last the following modifications:

a. To establish in Chinese centers with a considerable Russian population, the territory of the Chinese Eastern Railway being excepted, Russian Counsellors attached to the Chinese Commissioners of Foreign Affairs, the duty of these Counsellors being to fulfil with regard to Russian citizens judicial and administrative functions;

b. To entrust the Principal Administration for Russian Affairs mentioned above with the confirmation of Russian Judges and Counsellors in their office:

c. To entrust with the de facto execution of Russian sentences and verdicts the corresponding Chinese officials;

d. To entrust the Principal Administration for Russian affairs with the decision of all moot points with which the said officials might meet, as well as of the complaints which might be filed against their actions.

PLAN MIXED COURTS

5.—To put the decision of Russo-Chinese law suits into the hands of Mixed Courts, constituted in the corresponding localities by Chinese and Russian judges (or the Russian Counsellors which would replace them); the decisions of these Courts would be final and no complaints could be filed against them;, in cases in which the two Judges should not arrive at a unanimous decision, the affair would be submitted for final decision to the Principal Administration for Russian Affairs.

6. To recognise that all the Russian concessions must dispose of their own police, depending from the municipal councils and institutions which will depend from the Russian prosecutor with regard to measures to be taken concerning criminal activities which might arise.

7. The municipal administrations of the Russian concessions must remain intact and continue to function strictly on the basis of existing regulations; the Russian Counsellors attached to the Chinese Commissioners for Foreign Affairs will be entrusted with the immediate control of the Municipal Councils of the Russian concessions.

TELL OF MEETING

For the detailed drawing up of the measures outlined in a general way above, we earnestly request Your Excellency, referring ourselves to the note of the Diplomatic Body of October 11, to call at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs a mixed conference, with the obligatory participation of representatives of Russian institutions legally working in China and on the territory of the Chinese Eastern Railway. Pending the end of the work of this conference and of the promulgation of the measures which it will draw up, we request the Chinese Government to suspend the action of the local Chinese authorities, resulting from the decree of September 23 last in those localities, in which this decree has already been put into execution.

Shanghai Chamber Registers Protest

In consequence of the issuing of the decree dismissing Russian consular officials from authority in China, Mr. A. A. Balakshin and Mr. S. S. Heiman, president and vice-president of the Russian Chamber of Commerce, paid a visit to the office of the Commissioner of Foreign Affairs, interviewing Commissioner Hsu Yuan in regard to the matter.

They drew attention to the difficult position in which Russian citizens in China would find themselves, declaring that their position would be one of absolute helplessness if the order dismissing the officials was to stand, and asking that some attempt be made to bring about a more satisfactory solution of the matter.

Commissioner Hsu replied with reassurances of the safety of Russian interests and said that the handling of affairs would be just the same as formerly but that the former organisation would be replaced by a chancery.

The visitors protested that a chancery controlled by Chinese would not be able to assume the difficult duties of looking after Russian interests in China and indicated that such a solution would not be satisfactory.

PARIS RAT PLAGUE HAS FUNNY SIDE

Swindler Attempts To Collect Bounty On Counterfeits Of Rodents' Tails

Paris, September 16.—This cablegram, says Clement Vautel in the Journal today, has been received by the manager of a large Paris hotel:

New York, September 13.—Learn that Paris is infested by rats. Abandoning voyage. Can dispose of apartment reserved for October.

DAISY BLACKWELL.

For the sake of the good name of Paris one must hasten to assure Daisy Blackwell that the Paris rats are not yet either so numerous or so ferocious as those of Hamelin. On the whole, they are tame, quiet rats, which, getting plenty to eat, have so far refrained from attacking Parisians and disport themselves mostly in the cellars and streets after dark. They have not yet, at least, invaded the bedrooms of first-class hotels, and the dining rooms, except in some of the smaller restaurants of the Latin Quarter, are so far free from them. One was reported the other evening to have jumped on the footboard of a taxicab and taken a free ride along the Boulevard; but such incidents are exceptional.

By October the city fathers and police hope to have reduced the rat army, whose numbers are now estimated at 8,000,000, by a considerable amount. So far the offensive cannot be said to have been crowned by success. An average bag of 3,000 a day is all that has been counted since the beginning of hostilities. Much bigger figures than these are expected when the offensive is developed and the strategic methods of the rat killing brigade have had their full effect.

Meanwhile a shocking story of human depravity has been unearthed by the police, and the offender has been arrested. Not content with trying to earn the 5-cent reward offered for each rat killed and delivered, a wily Parisian has been inventing rat tails and getting rewards for them. When he arrived at the station where the rewards are paid he was informed that the whole body of the rat was required as proof of its death, but he explained that he had invented a capsule which when the unfortunate rodent had eaten it blew it to pieces, leaving only the tail intact.

The explanation was accepted, and for four days the inventor came with an assortment of about 250 tails. On the fifth day he found a policeman waiting for him. Some one had taken the trouble to examine the tails and had discovered that they were made of string and India rubber. At the inventor's home 2,000 ready-made tails were found by the police. Daisy Blackwell can however, be assured that not all the rats being destroyed in Paris just now are represented only by their tails.

The Death Of Terence MacSwiney

TERENCE MacSwiney, Lord Mayor of Cork, is dead of self-imposed starvation. He had fasted 74 days, surely a record in human annals. Arrested on August 12 he had taken no food, so far as the record shows, until the last day of his life, when, according to Reuter's, liquid food was forcibly administered while he was unconscious. It was too late.

On the day of his trial, two days after his arrest, he told the court martial: "I wish to state that I will put a limit to any term of imprisonment you may impose. I have taken no food since my arrest; therefore I will be free, alive or dead, in a month."

That he did not succeed in freeing himself within the time limit he had set was due to no weakening on his part. Probably it was the fires of fanatical zeal burning within him for the cause of Sein Feinism that kept the last faint spark of life flickering for a month and fourteen days beyond the time he had fixed for the freeing of himself from British custody.

The effect of this heroic sacrifice upon the world at large is difficult to foresee. MacSwiney was a teacher, a poet, a dramatist, before he became prominent as a leader of the Sein Fein movement. One writer has described him as "a young man with the head of a poet and the heart of a stoic philosopher." When he took the post of Lord Mayor of Cork, after Lord Mayor MacCurtain had been slain, he described it as a "post of doom" and predicted his own death.

The story of his trial has been printed all over the world, and has been read with special interest because it reached the world while his hunger-strike was in progress, and while the terrible processes of assassination and reprisal continued to rage in Ireland.

Whatever one may think of the rights or wrongs of MacSwiney's determination to die rather than submit to imprisonment which he considered illegal, we have to deal with the fact that he bravely faced death for the cause he loved. A good many millions of men have made similar sacrifice on the field of battle recently, but their sacrifice was not in the same cause that steeled MacSwiney to his self-imposed task, nor with death coming suddenly in the midst of battle, so spectacular.

The general thought that will occur to most of us is that it is a terrible thing that conditions should have arisen in Ireland sufficiently tragic to inspire and inflame this young man with the spirit imperative for so martyr-like a determination. Next will come the question: "But will it do any good? To what extent does this sacrifice help in the solution of the problem?"

The Irish question demands solution. It has been demanding it for years. Does MacSwiney's death mark one further step towards settlement? If it does, he will not have died in vain. Or does it on the contrary render settlement more difficult? If that be the case, MacSwiney was wrong in the course he took. His decision in any case was purely political. If he could win freedom for Ireland by dying for her he was willing to do it. His decision was that he could do more for the cause he loved by dying than he could by living. Whether he was right or wrong remains to be seen.

England, we should say, has long been in despair over her inability to settle the question of Ireland with fairness both to herself and to the several parties in Ireland. And Ireland, as we all know, is in a far worse state of despair.

So far as England and Ireland are concerned we are unable to see how MacSwiney's death moves the question either one way or the other. It remains just where it was, with men dying every day. But MacSwiney's sacrifice, protracted and tragic as it was, will have its undoubted effects elsewhere. For instance, the present labor troubles in England are to some extent connected with the Irish question. There is no organised industry in England that is without its Irish members. And the same holds true in America where the miners are refusing to supply coal for England.

Beyond that lies the tremendous political decision which the American people are to make next Tuesday. MacSwiney's hunger-strike and death will exert vast influence among the American voters of Irish and German descent who but for the Irish question, topped off by this spectacular self-immolation, would have favored Cox and the League of Nations. It is being constantly put to them that under the Covenant of the League, Ireland becomes the vassal of England for ever, and that if necessary America would have to protect England in her possession of Ireland even to the extent of sending her troops abroad. So that, viewed in a general way, MacSwiney's sacrifice affects world conditions more than it affects the single issue to which he devoted and gave his life.

SPECTACLES WITH SMILES

"In that curious mosaic known as Singapore, which sits on the equator complacently as a watch-chain locket on a portly man, all nationalities the year through go their several ways. Each nationality at the proper season holds its national festival, of which all the other nationalities are tolerant and amused spectators. No European, for instance, can look at a number of solemn Chinese attempting to imitate a dragon trying to swallow the sun in the procession at Chinese New Year without experiencing a slight tendency to smile. And the Chinaman who sees an Englishman hit on the elbow by a fast bowler receives the information that cricket is an enjoyable game with something more than a suspicion of mirth."—Mr. Podd of Borneo by PETER BLUNDELL.

If a "human interest story" happens in our own lives, it is a tragedy that must be lived down.

If it occurs in our family it is a sorrow.

"America's Aims And Asia's Aspirations"

By Patrick Gallagher

Long before one has passed even the halfway point in Mr. Gallagher's truly remarkable volume one has the sense of wandering in the high, secret places of the world's diplomacy, intimately discussing international intrigue with the suave gentlemen who fashion and perpetrate it.

To make the situation additionally interesting, one seems to be clad in a vanishing cloak of silk, designed a la Mandarin, and to be armed with a stout shillelah—yet, despite these apparent advantages, the reader finds himself constantly outmaneuvered and nonplussed by the wily, frock-coated Europeans, gathered in secret caucus in "The House of the Flirt."

What Mr. Gallagher has actually given to the world is a splendidly concrete collation of facts in connection with the Peace Conference at Paris and Versailles, which proceedings he reported for the New York Herald. It is a "close-up" view of the "big show," containing much valuable information which has not heretofore been available or permissible of publication.

Particularly does Mr. Gallagher consider the Conference with regard to its attitude toward two very distinct and important parts of the world—the Far East, and Ireland. The first of these commands many chapters of the book; the latter is discussed succinctly, in many less words, from the standpoint of an American-Irishman who claims for his viewpoint the virtue of "perfect impartiality;" but who, like most of us in whom runs a strain of Erin's elixir, has difficulty in restraining a note of sympathy for the "distressful isle" (the term is quoted from another author).

Thus, in chapter Thirteen, he says:

"One cannot be an American and against liberty. One cannot be an American and against Irish liberty . . . . I think, however, that Mr. Wilson will agree with me when I say that Irish rebels have a peculiarly strong and valid claim upon the indulgence of the American people, if not the American government.

"And it (the Irish question) can be made the business of the United States of America if the American people say the word. The word may be said by Americans. It should not be said by men who claim the privilege of being Americans in the morning and Irishmen at night."

Mr. Gallagher is tremendously convincing throughout this volume, save when he occasionally appears to "run with the hare and hunt with the hounds," a practice which he declares to have been indulged by President Wilson while the latter was considering the Irish, Japanese and Chinese questions presented at the Peace Conference.

Unconsciously or not—presumably the former—the author of "America's Aims and Asia's Aspirations" is discovered, in several places, in what seems to be just such a dual role.

Thus, while professing an exceptionally high regard and admiration for the President, whom he eulogises, on several occasions, as the really great, outstanding figure at the Conference, Mr. Gallagher does not hesitate to administer some very sharp and frank blows into the midriff of Mr. Wilson's character and reputation. While espousing the cause of China, he states a case for Japan which excuses the Nipponese for much of their alleged chicanery in the Far East. While urging independence for the Philippines, he has almost as much to say on the other side of the question. While apparently glorying in Ireland's defection, he deprecates most of the acts of Sinn Fein.

In many ways—since Mr. Gallagher's book is very evidently intended to be a record, rather than an invective; a goad toward world-justice, rather than a scourge upon past oppression and wrong—this method of presenting both sides is admirable, and should win many friends for the volume, particularly amongst readers whose viewpoints are unbiased by partisanship.

Thus, the student of 1935 or 1940, eager to acquaint himself familiarly with just what happened to the Far East, and to Far Eastern diplomacy, at the Peace Conference, will find the Gallagher offering invaluable as a brilliant foot-note to history; while the discriminating reader of today will find it absorbingly interesting and instructive from beginning to end.

As for China and things Chinese, they cannot but be aided on their journey toward Utopia by this good-Samaritan exposure of their present helplessness, and reminder to America and other Powers of their manifold duties in the accomplishment of "Asia's Aspirations."

In his concluding chapters Mr. Gallagher asks pertinent questions regarding the world's future conduct which must be answered—soon—and honestly! It may be (though God forbid!) that the answers will be further challenges to mortal combat, from one nation to another—but answered they must be!

Many of these questions (most of them, in fact) have to do with the Far East—China, Japan, the Philippines—where the future of the world now swings in its silken cocoon. Having, by means of this important volume, been made intimately familiar with the methods employed by Old and New World diplomats, toward "Oldest World" representatives and one another, it will be additionally interesting to the layman, now, to lie on the sands of Time and "watch the world go round."

Taken all in all, Mr. Gallagher is to be sincerely congratulated on this contribution to the world's supply of permanently-valuable literature.

Mr. Shaw's Newest Woman

Bernard Shaw sees a change in the woman's rights movement. The attempt of women to ape men has been transformed into the bold assertion of their femininity, with a special eye to "its social value." The Irish dramatist's latest views are set forth in an article entitled "Woman Since 1860," in the October number of McCall's Magazine. In this article, after tracing the changes in woman's viewpoint since 1860, Mr. Shaw says:

"Still, it was inevitable that the movement should begin with women insisting on doing everything that men did. When a woman beat all the men at the university examinations, the women of the movement exulted enormously, and were indignant when I described the feat as the reductio ad absurdum of university education, just as I described votes for women as the reductio ad absurdum of democracy. (My own demand was that all governing bodies should have a due proportion of women on them, votes or no votes, no matter how they got there.)

"It was clear to me that what women had to do was not to repudiate their femininity, but to assert its social value; not to ape masculinity, but to demonstrate its insufficiency. That was the point of my play "Candida" (1895), in which it is made quite plain that the husband's masculine career would go to pieces without the wife's feminine activity. This view of the matter gained ground and is now, I think, the standard view. The reaction began by a pronounced anti-homonist movement, in which man was no longer to be imitated, but rather chaffed as a butt, a dupe, a hopelessly untidy, unpractical, helpless person, depending on woman from his very conception. In short, the secret that men are very much afraid of the matrimonial pursuit and domestic tyranny of women and are organised against them far more on defensive than offensive lines, was given away.

"This countermovement has not balanced itself yet. It culminated in the campaign of the suffragettes, which was conducted with extraordinary violence and resisted with frantic savagery. But before it broke into volcanic eruption it had obliterated the would-be manly woman. The suffragettes insisted on their womanliness as much as the early Victorian women. The manly movement, however, established toleration for practices which, though formerly confined to men, were really as proper—or improper—to women as to men. For instance, women gave up crying and fainting, and took to swearing and smoking. My mother, who went her own way without ever dreaming of belonging to a movement or smoking, never cried.

"When anything bothered her she relieved her feelings with a hearty 'damn.' When she formed her habits, smoking by women, or even in their presence, was unheard of. There was not even a smoking room in the house. Men went down to the kitchen late at night and smoked up the chimney. There were no smoking carriages on trains, though every one smoked in the third-class carriages. The result was that men were engaged in a permanent conspiracy to get away from women so that they might smoke. When women discovered that the toleration and even the practice of smoking was the price of male company, they first tolerated and then practiced it. The habit is one of the most extraordinary aberrations of our civilisation, imposed on us as it was by the redskin at the climax of the Renascence. Men were always a little ashamed of it, and were actually heading for its renunciation when women gave it an enormous impulse and made it quite shameless. In the nineteenth century it was possible to hope that smoking would disappear in the twentieth. But Edward VII succeeded in establishing large cigars, each one capable of poisoning the air of the room for a month, in the drawing-room; and now the people who do not smoke have to choose between stale tobacco fumes and social ostracism.

"As refinement was supposed to be proper to women and roughness proper to men fifty years ago, the great increase in companionship between men and women during that period was bound either to refine the men or roughen the women. It has done both. The feminine refinement which was only silliness disguised by affectation has gone; and women are hardier and healthier, and the stock sizes of their clothes are larger in consequence. The masculine vigor that was only boorishness, slovenliness and neglect of person and clothes has fled before feminine criticism.

"But the generalisation that women are refined and men rough by nature is a superficial one, holding good only when, as often happens, the man's occupation is rougher than the woman's. The natural woman cannot afford to be as fastidious as the natural man; if she shirked all the unpleasantness that he escapes the race would perish. As a matter of fact, there are coarse women and coarse men, refined women and refined men; and there is no reason to suppose that the proportions differ in the two sexes.

"There is, however, a rebellion against nature in the matter of the very unequal share of the burden of reproduction which falls to men and women in civilised communities. I say civilised communities advisedly, because the extremely artificial life of the modern lady has the effect of making her natural functions pathological. Whether the rebellion has been going on ever since ladies were invented I do not know, because history is silent on the subject, as it is on so many specifically feminine subjects. But I can testify that among the women brought up amid the feminist movement of the second half of the nineteenth century there was a revolt against maternity which went deeper than that revolt against excessive maternity which has led to birth control. These more thoroughgoing rebels objected to the whole process, from the occasional event itself to the more permanent conditions it imposes. It is easy to dismiss this as monstrous and silly, but the modern conception of creative evolution forbids us to dismiss any development as impossible if it becomes the subject of an aspiration.

"There is no limit to the truth of the old saying that where there is a will there is a way, and though for the moment a refusal to accept the existing conditions of reproduction would mean race suicide, the rebels against nature may be the pioneers of evolutionary changes which may finally dispose of the less pleasant incidents of nutrition, and make reproduction a process external to the parents in its more burdensome phases, as it now is in many existent species.

"No doubt all revolts against nature show a certain want of what is called good sense in the rebels. But good sense is an inhibition which suppresses vital impulses as well as deadly ones. If Joan of Arc had been a sensible girl she would have died in her bed in Domremy as a subject of the English crown. There is something to be learned even from the career of Charles XII., who had much less good sense than Joan. For that matter, there is much to be learned from the blind, the deaf, the callous, and the hyperesthetic. Freudian psychoanalysis has discovered some interesting things by totally discarding good sense and delicacy. And I suggest that when a woman is found in complete revolt against maternity the proper treatment for her apparent mania is not to revile her as a monster, but to explain to her that her instinctive antipathy is a quite creditable movement toward an end that will one day be reached, though it cannot relieve her from the necessity for kindly and sensibly making the best of the existing provisional arrangements."

Hall's Distemper has led the way to a new era in house decoration—the era of brighter, cleaner and healthier homes.

It is the most durable of all decorations, lasting for years with freshness unimpaired, whereas wall-papers deteriorate from the first day by fading and accumulating dust and dirt.

Hall's Distemper is a thorough disinfectant, and is applied directly upon the wall, forming a hard surface, from which dust and dirt may be "spring-cleaned" by lightly sponging with warm water.

Hall's Distemper (Registered Trade Mark)

Rising Tide Of Crime Hits Paducah Center

BY ED STREETER

(Author Of The Famous Dere Mable' Letters)

Dear Sun.—I am writin this in bed as the result of a misunderstandin. I woulda wrote you sooner only I was waitin to see if I'd live. Doct. Slingsbee says I been surf ridin on the wave o' crime thats sweepin over the country. That fello would make a joke if they brot you in his office in seckshuns.

Its all the result o to much newspaper readin. Folks in these parts is so worked up account o hold ups an roberies and such like releef work, that its as much as yure lifes worth to point a finger at a body. No one ud be suprised if nothin happened.

The trubel came when I was ridin home from Ivydale the other night in Minton Pebbels auto. That good fer nothin Hank Peters was with us. He kep talkin the whole trip about the best way to nock a fello unconshus. Thats Hanks idear of an interestin chat. Hes the kind of a man that goes around to see a sick friend an amuses him by given imitashuns of the deth rattel.

Well sir, we was passin thru some timber an Hank was just recallin how it was the place Lizzie Grimshaw was murdered. All on a sudden I see a red lanturn in the road ahed.

"Whats that?" says Minton. "Looks like a red lanturn," says Hank an starts to tell about a peece he read in the paper about three men what was holdin up autos that way.

"Well, they aint goin to stop me," says Minton. With that he opens up his old rattel trap an starts at the red light lickety split, wavin one arm out the side an cussin somethin fierce.

Minton had the right idear only the light hapened to be settin on a pile a gravel they was fixen the road with. Boath Minton an Hank is doin as well as could be expeckted. Thats what comes o not havin no sistem. If theyre goin to use red lanturns for holdin folks up they ought to have some other kind fer settin on gravel piles.

We aint had no killins around here yet but the sines o vice is wrote plain on the wall. Last week a strange yung fello walks into Ezra Putnams ceegar store and buyin a ceegar walks out agen without pavin fer it. "Hey," says Ez. "Aint you forgot somethin?" "Go to smash," says the yung follo an aint never ben seen since.

An a cupel o weeks ago Squire Freeman had his pockets picked. Ether that or his money dropped thru a hole there was in one of em. I'm puttin good strong locks on the inside o all the screen doors an soons I get about agen I'm goin to get a permit to carry a flash light.

O course everybody knows its the falt o the administrashun. As soons we get a new one things will hush right up. I'm glad to heer your readin the politicul speeches. I always beleeve in pickin out the best man in a free minded sort o way as longs you vote Republickan when the time comes.

Makin a politicul speech is like tryin to get out a crowded street car without stepppin on nobody's toes. Its a strain on any man. Even the smartest of em is liabel to say somethin in the course of a two or three hour speech.

While I ben lyin here plannin my funerul I wrote out my idear of a speech. If theyd take a thing like this an have printed forms made fer both sides to use it ud give everybody a chance to draw theyre own delusions the way they wanted to draw em an then vote with a cleer conshunce.

I'd have it go something like this:

"Ladees an gentlemen—an the littel ones—" (an right here I'd have a fello read waitin to hand up a baby for kissin). "As I look at that flag, floatin so nobel over yure heds, I'm reminded of —" (Here I'd read a list of Americans, beginnin with Geo. Washington an endin with a few o the local men).

"It aint necessary fer me to tell you the oposin party done wrong in everything they done or said—which aint much. Every right minded man knows that.

"On the Leege o Nashuns I feel like every inteligunt man in the country does. I am proud to feel that way. I will mantane this stand to the last."

"Never before has the country been faced with greater problums than today. The—party stands where you would want it to stand on each an every one o' these.

"As fer the likker questshun I will say just this. It must be upheld.

"As soons Im lected theres goin to be lower prices, higher wages an more profits fer the bisnis man.

"I beleeve in peace unless war is necessary an on the subject of military trainin I am in perfeck accord.

"Fer years the questshun o Womans Sufferin has been debated to an fro. Today it is a vitul ishue. Who, standin where I am an lookin down on the female faces o the women turned up to me today, could fail to think as I do this burnin ishue?

"In regards to Child Labor I have only to point to the lovely tots which gather so eager round the platform. What more could any man promise?

"The present tax sistem is a disgrace. I beleeve that the taxes should be raised so they wont be noticed by nobody, rich or poor.

"I beleeve in the Munro Docterin, altered perhaps to meet modurn needs. I beleeve in small countries. I beleeve in the right o every man to live—an die.

"Lift youre eyes with me, my friends, to the dizzy heights where the egels scream strikes terror into undesrvin brests. That my friends, is the—party. Ceegars an refreshments will be seved immediate at my expense behind the band stand."

Right there you got a campain that amounts to somethin cause youve let everybody work out the burin ishues to suit themselves, which is what they want. It keeps em happy til leckshun an after that theyll be too busy to pay much tenshun to things anyway.

Yure muther is sendin you under cover seperately a half a cheese? We thought it might kind o make you think o home an cheer you up. Outside o that I don't know no news cept a son has been born to Sarah Krout what married Jed Stevens. Its a boy. I remain as ever

Nature's Own Cure For Chronic Constipation And Biliousness

A clogged, sluggish liver and intestinal congestion, with the attendant train of other disorders, such as headache, dizziness, muddy or pimpled complexion, catarrh, indigestion, languor and impure blood, should never be neglected, for doctors often term constipation "the beginning of all disease." It means that dangerous toxins are constantly being drawn into the blood. Poisonous drugs and powerful cathartics, such as calomel (mercury), can give only temporary relief, simply because, while they may irritate the liver to violent, convulsive action, they do not stop adherence to walls of the intestines, nor cleanse and strengthen the delicate network of secretory ducts and glands. For this latter purpose there is nothing equal to ordinary Alkia Saltrates, the deposits of certain natural medicinal waters, obtainable from any chemist as refined Alkia Saltrates. Take a level teaspoonful in a half-tumbler of water, and continue for a few days, until all signs of liver trouble have entirely disappeared. Then headaches, mental depression, stomach trouble and other disorders will also vanish, and you will again enjoy life as Nature intended. Mental effort and concentration are no longer difficult, hard work becomes a pleasure, and that constant tired feeling disappears. Avoid strong cathartic pills, lowering salts, drugs or alcoholic stimulants, eat moderately, and drink once or twice daily a tumbler of water, in which you occasionally dissolve a teaspoonful of Alkia Saltrates—Nature's own liver clarifier—and you need never fear a recurrence of the disorders.

NOTE.—We are informed that Messrs. A. S. Watson & Co. of 16 Nanking Road, Shanghai, stock a specially high grade of Alkia Saltrates and are in a position to supply this remarkable compound at a very low cost.

CHAPTER V
of the Celebrated Emile Zola novel "WORK"

"JUSTICE"
Featuring
Huguette DUFLOS de la Comedie Francaise

MATHOT
Raphael DUFLOS de la Comedie Francaise

In a sublime vision, the great novelist foresaw the reorganisation of work based on the truth, that the happiness of all will bring to pass the happiness of each work abiding by itself, a reason to be social.

See, the situations in the world are getting worse and worse. But Humanity is Walking Toward Truth, Justice, Peace and Happiness.

Don't Miss Steing this So-Different Chapter.

Hankow Market

Hankow, October 20, 1920.

Finance and Money Market.—Bills were scarce and keenly competed for and as rates fell the supply ceased. This was a small demand for remittance for forward delivery. Taels T. T. on Shanghai rose to 97.1 Chinese market and foreign banks sold at 96.9 to 97 rising at the end of the week to 97½. Dollars remained steady at 69.85-70.05 buyers and sellers. Interest 11 percent after being 16 percent. Changsha exchange no quotation.

Imports.—There is no improvement and the market is absolutely lifeless. What little demand there is, is of a retail nature at very low prices. Prospects for the immediate future do not seem at present, very bright.

Exports.—The market remains about the same as last reported. Nothing of interest to comment upon.
